AGRICULTURAL LANDS

On the Magdalena and Altar Rivers, Sonora

Stock and Cattle Ranches in the Districts of Magdalena and Altar

The district watered by the Magdalena River is the best in Sonora; the greatest water shed, the greatest rainfall, and unquestionably the best climate, with an average elevation of 3000 feet. Corn is summer and grain in winter, and the best alfalfa district in Sonora.

200,000 ACRES of bottom land on the Magdalena River with ample flood waters, and pumping water at very shallow depth, with abundant mesquite fuel.

Less than 20% of the valley in cultivation today. Main trunk line railway traverses the valley. The mesa lands constitute the best grazing lands in Sonora. No tick.

Agricultural bottom lands from $5.00 to $25.00. Grazing land with ample water for stock, $1.00 to $1.50.

Yesterday a number of American refugees from Mexico, received financial aid from the United States authorities at this port. Several railroad tickets to points in the far east, were furnished by officers of the 4th U. S. Cavalry stationed here. Our Uncle Sam is a pretty good fellow, after all.

Judge Richard E. Sloan left for Arizona Wednesday after taking oath of office as the First United States district judge of Arizona. His commission was signed Tuesday by President Taft and the oath administered at the department of justice in the presence of the attorney general and other officials.

Wednesday James Eastman, many years engaged in mining in Arizona and Sonora, died in this city after a short illness. Bright's was the cause of his passing. Jim Eastman was well known here and throughout Sonora. New of his death will be learned with regret by many old time friends and acquaintances.

The Dominguez Builders' Supply Company, O. J. Omstead manager, have this week been busy making some important, much needed improvements in the Lyric theatre. The work is first-class in every particular and greatly adds to the comfort of patrons of the big play house, which is also made more attractive and pleasing in appearance.

Yesterday Mrs. T. J. Turner, wife of Tom Turner, ex-sheriff of Santa Cruz county, spent the day in Nogales, from the ranch near Elgin, being accompanied by her friend, Miss H. M. Nye of Los Angeles, who is visiting at the Turner ranch. The ladies were chaperoned by B. G. Yoas, Mrs. Turner's cousin. While in the city they were guests at the National hotel.

On August 25th, the amnesty to those in arms against the Madero government ended and from now on all persons caught carrying arms against the Mexican government will be executed without trial. Notices to this effect have been posted in many public places in Nogales, and other towns throughout Mexico. The suspension of guarantees will make some of the would be rebels, hesitate before entering the war game in Mexico.

Answering the question put to him by County Attorney George O. Hiltzinger, as requested by County Recorder P. E. Howell, Attorney General Bullard has written Attorney Hiltzinger that the county registration books must remain closed 17 days. The law is so worded that Howell was puzzled whether the books should remain closed 17 or 16 days. The attorney general sets out that the books must be closed Saturday, August 31 and be opened Sept. 17.—Citizen.

When it comes to building railroad bridges, General Superintendent H. J. Temple of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, can give anybody cards and spades and beat 'em in a walk. Barring earthquakes and dynamite, the line between Nogales and Guaymas will be open for through traffic today, thanks to Supt. Temple's untiring efforts. He has constantly been on the fire line, personally directing the work of repairing the damages done by red flaggers last week.

Postmaster Harry Barnett of Patagonia, spent a couple of days in Nogales this week from the second city in the county. He reports business in his section flourishing and everybody well and happy. Mr. Barnett and wife own the big up-to-date Commercial hotel at Patagonia, which, since the mining boom struck that section, is doing an enormous business. The wet-goods emporium, is under the management of August Yarrick, who is a past-master in the business.

Jack Woodrum, the veteran passenger conductor on the Sonora railroad, after enjoying his summer's vacation on the coast with his family, returned to Nogales Thursday, and after a few days will go south to resume his duties. In Los Angeles, Jack saw Mr. Howell Jordan, formerly of Nogales, who with his mother and sister resides at Pasadena, where he owns a pleasant home. Captain Jordan was well and happy. He wished to be remembered to his Nogales friends.

What will happen to the writers of the anonymous letters being sent through the Nogales, Arizona postoffice to citizens and officials of this place, if caught, will be plenty. The communications which are written in Spanish, are of a very threatening nature. Up to date the following have received anonymous letters: Collector of U. S. Customs Con O'Keefe, County Attorney S. F. Noon, Pete Torres, chief of the Mexican secret service, and Mr. Guillermo Mascarenas, manager of the great Buena Vista and Santa Barbara ranches, owned by his father, Don Manuel Mascarenas, Sr. The Blackhand imitators, threaten the destruction of property and the lives of Torres and Mascarenas. The Southern Pacific railroad and public buildings, here and in other sections of the state, are to be destroyed. If the coward who wrote the letters is caught, he'll get all that is coming to him.

Thursday morning there arrived from Cananea, 222 federal soldiers, under command of Col. Jose R. Moreno, of the 5th battalion. They are a good looking bunch, and their coming has made citizens on the Mexican side of the line feel easy. On Wednesday 500 arrived at Noria, from Torres, and immediately began beating the brush in search of Campa's rebels who a few days previous were at Llano station. More federal troops are being rushed to Sonora to rid the state of red flaggers.

Friends of Colonel N. J. Purcell, poet, mining man and prince of good fellows, will be glad to learn that he is enjoying excellent health at his beautiful southern home in Hillsboro, Virginia. Colonel Purcell is general manager of Buena Fortuna Gold Mining Company, owning splendid properties in the Pinito mountain, thirty miles south of the international line. During the development of the mines several years ago, the colonel made his headquarters in Nogales. His friends hope he'll return to Nogales in the near future.

Pepe Calderon, a prominent young Hermosillo business man, accompanied by a couple of friends, arrived in the city Thursday evening, overland by carriage, after having been on the road since Monday morning. Monday nine miles north of Hermosillo, Calderon and his party met Fred H. Moore, in charge of I. E. Bowers' auto on his way to the capital city. The auto was being pulled by four mules, Fred being at the steering wheel. A telegram from Mr. Bowers states that Moore and his four-in-hand arrived safe, without having come in contact with the red flaggers.

With bag and baggage, Dr. W. C. Mabry, the well known Imuris, Sonora, physician and surgeon, arrived in the city the forepart of the week, and will continue on to California, where he and his family will make their home in future. The departure from this section of Dr. Mabry will be deeply regretted. He will be greatly missed by many people here and in Sonora. He said he had stuck it out in Imuris during the Madero revolution, and last year's small-pox epidemic, but does not care to remain through the Orozco, and any other revolutions that may follow.

That the Orozco rebels from Chihuahua, now in Sonora, are undesirable citizens in that state, is evidenced by the way loyal citizens there are taking up arms to defend their homes and families from the strangers. Two hundred of the best citizens of Nogales, Sonora, have volunteered to give battle to the red flaggers in case they attempt to enter that city. More than a thousand REAL MEN have done the same in Hermosillo, and from every town in the state comes the good news that red flaggers will pay dear for all the damage they do in our sister state, which desires peace more than anything else.

This week another mining deal of great importance to Santa Cruz county, was closed, when the Copper Queen Company of Bisbee, took over from Ed. McFarland, the Bradford group of mines, situated about one mile from Bloxtown station on the Nogales-Benson railroad. The mines are copper producers, and for some time Mr. McFarland, who bonded them from the Ferry estate, has been shipping high grade ore to the customs smelter. Recently the property was inspected personally by Professor Douglas, in company with his head mine expert, and this week the deal with McFarland was made. The consideration was not made public. This means another big company with unlimited capital at work near home.

Monday Messrs. Woodworth and Layne of the Border Mines Company, accompanied by Mrs. Woodworth visited the county seat, making the trip from the Austerlitz by auto. Under the personal management of Woodworth and Layne, the old Austerlitz has developed into a great dividend-paying mine, and a source of great revenue to Santa Cruz county. Nogales is the natural supply point for the big camp, and our merchants and everybody interested in the welfare of our little city, should unite in pulling for the business of that section of the county. It is said the wagon road from Nogales to Oro Blanco could be put in shape at a small cost. This matter should be looked into at once and some immediate action taken by those interested.

Mr. William Powers, one of Patagonia's pioneer citizens, who for many years has been successfully engaged in business at that place, was a business visitor at the county seat a couple of days this week, returning home Thursday. "Uncle William" owns valuable mining interests near Patagonia. He is also interested in the Chief group of claims recently bonded to George B. Hosier and associates, by E. E. Bethell of Patagonia and Bracey Curtis of this city, mention of which was made two weeks ago in THE BORDER VIDETTE. The Chief is near the famous World's Fair in the Harshaw district, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powers.

Mines in the Oro Blanco district are being worked and much ore is being taken out, according to the statement of J. H. Dyer, superintendent of the Tucson division of the Southern Pacific. Mr. Dyer has returned from a trip to that section. All of the ore dumps look fresh from the ore recently taken out and every thing appears to be in a very prosperous condition. The Austerlitz mine maintains a string of 250 mules to do the freighting to Amado siding, from which point ore is shipped. Mr. Dyer says that in traveling over the country he noticed that the cattle are in excellent shape and that the range is looking fine after the recent rains.

Frank N. Cox, Tom Lake, Jr., and Pete Ross, three American mining men, who reside at Llano, Sonora, have arrived in the city and will remain here indefinitely. Ross, who was in Llano when General Campa the rebel leader, paid that place a hurried visit, kept under cover until the rebels left town, then beat it to the United States, where he says he'll remain until after the war is over. He says the rebels took everything in sight, and made a businessman pay a ransom of $500, all the cash he had. Ross said there were only about sixty men in the band that visited Llano. They were well mounted but were very short of ammunition. Messrs. Cox, Lake and Ross own mining property near Llano.

OPIUM SMUGGLERS CAUGHT.

Creighton and Smith Follow Them to Tucson.

Two opium smugglers were arrested yesterday (Wednesday) as they came out of the Wells Fargo express office with a suitcase containing 80 cans of the stuff. The arresting officers were Harry Creighton and H. A. Smith, both customs officials. The men came up from Nogales and expressed the suit case on ahead of them. When they came to claim it, they were arrested.

Frank Lees and another, a Mexican were the two men smuggling. Lees goes under various aliases, and Mr. Creighton says that he has been operating out of El Paso for some time. On account of the disturbances in Mexico, the smugglers came to Nogales to get the goods, but the customs men had their eyes on them.

As soon as it was known that the men were sending the suit case to Tucson by express, the customs men started for the city. When opened the grip was found to contain 80 cans of opium. It is worth about $16 a can, according to the Tucson market. Mr. Creighton said that it ordinary ran higher than this, but on account of the large quantity, the men would not have been able to get more than that for it. —Tucson Star.

Uncle Sam on the Job

Yesterday's Tucson Star says: According to latest reports no trouble is being caused the railroad from the rebels now. The bridges have been repaired and it was stated yesterday at the railroad offices that the line would be opened to Guaymas by Saturday and that trains would be running. A bunch of provisions and supplies have been collected at Nogales and will be sent down the coast. Provisions are a scarce thing since the rebels have been in that section, as they are said to be excellent foragers.

The cruiser Vicksburg arrived in Guaymas harbor Wednesday night and it is reported that she was in bad shape. The damages have been repaired and the ship is ready to sail or for business, which ever way the order comes. The arrival of the United States gun boat in those waters caused some little excitement and conjecture. It is said that its showing up in that section will have an excellent moral effect.
